Consequently There Is Less Inclination to Speculate in Stocks.

UNCERTAINTY OWING TO FLUC-TUATION IN PRICES.

New York, June 11.-The action of the day's stock market threw no conclusive light upon the state of speculative opinion beyond the uncertainty mirrored in constant fluctuations of prices. Forecasts of the bank statement afforded some increased assurance over the money outlook, and rates for call loans yelded to below 2 per cent after the appearance of the preliminary estimates of the week's currency move-ment. In spite of the easier tone of the Chicago exchange rate on New York the inflow of currency from the interior seems to be uninterrupted. The estimates of the gain in cash by the banks vary from five to over eight millions. The higher rates for money during the week, both on time and call, foster a feeling of caution on the part of the berrowers and induce the conviction that the demand from the interior for funds to move the crops is at hand The extended position of the loan accounts of the banks adds to this disposition, especially with the approach of the period of the semi-annual settle-

It is probable the seasonable hardening in the money market has some-thing to do with the scaling down of speculative activity in stocks. Some repressive effect is traceable to the deelopments in regard to the American Sugar Refining company. There was some unsettlement caused by the discrepancy between the sharp decline in he price of copper warrants in London and the break in Rio Tinto mining shares in Paris, and the glowing reports of copper trade conditions which continue to circulate here. The suggestion that exports of copper were ac-cumulating in foreign stocks and that iomestic deliveries by producers were finding lodgment in second hands without going wholly into consumption was regarded as disturbing and as partly accounting for the siuggishness in the United States Steel also was almost immovable. Colorado & Southern dropped three points because the directors refrained from declaring a divi-dend. There was another variation in the opposing movements of the Harri man Pacifics, Southern Pacific taking up the advance, while Union Pacific became reactionary. Wabash preferred was a strong feature with the repeti tion of the still unconfirmed rumor of absorption by the Lackawanna.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. Chicago, June 11.-Renewed selling of July was the feature of trading in wheat and the price of that option moved over a range of 2½ cents. At the close the market was weak, but buying of deferred futures by prominent firms created a steadier feeling.

The chief factor in the situation was the pear approach of harvest in covern of

The chief factor in the situation was the near approach of harvest in several of the leading winter wheat states and the generally bearish tenor of crop reports from the southwest. Improved conditions abroad were largely responsible for a decline of %d to %d at Laverpool, which had a weakening effect here at the start. The rally that occurred toward midday owing to the strength of northwestern markets, particularly that at Winnipeg, which was up 3 cents, was due largely to a brisk demand for the cash grain. The advice indicated fresh selling of July and that option declined from 1.17% to 1.15%. At the close July was ½ cent below the previous close, but the September and December options showed slight gains.
